

TAKING THE CURRICULUM OUTDOORS: Reviewing your outdoor learning provision during the past year

In the OFSTED report (2008) Learning Outside the Classroom - How far should you go? a key finding was that even schools who demonstrated very effective outdoor learning were failing to measure the impact of outdoor learning on improving achievement. The aim of this sheet is to give you an indication of where you are at now so that in one year's time you can look back and reflect upon your progress.

In each box write down the activity and main curriculum area covered (continue overleaf if needed):

	In your school grounds	In your local area – within walking distance	A day trip or outdoor learning activity which required transport
April to July 2008
August to October 2008
November 2008 -present

Approximately, how many hours of outdoor learning have you undertaken with your class this past year?
